

KEY SUCCESS FACTORS IN PDGM

Collaboration will be more vital than ever under PDGM. To help you stay on the right track, consider these key success factors. If you have questions, At Home With Aegis is here to help.

- Review alignment of care pathways with agency assessments of patient characteristics to ensure all patient needs are being appropriately addressed, not just therapy issues.
- Consider whether the use of care extenders might be utilized to accomplish value-based at a lower cost for both nursing and therapy services.
- Assess agency-level therapy leadership to ensure competencies that support appropriate patient admission to therapy for needed care.
- With doctors and hospitals being incentivized on patient satisfaction and rehospitalization, therapy providers can initiate enhanced collaboration with agencies in their discussions with referral sources and provide additional insight on how therapy can support patient and family care expectations.
- Identify how to best collaborate with providers on the accurate functional scoring and ensure alignment on admission score submission.
